170 parking spaces proposed

New train station in square

by Jeff Nazzaro

Wilmington commuters can look forward to an extended, canopied train platform complete with 170 new parking spaces to be built sometime in the next two years. The Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority will use land now occupied by a maintenance building for the station facility, according to Wilmington Board of Selectmen Chairman Michael McCoy.

MBTA Project Coordinator Ron Morgan did not want to be held to any specific timeframe, but told McCoy and a contingent of town officials including Town Manager Michael Cairra, DPW Superintendent Bob Palmer, Town Engineer Harold Gillam and Selectman Diane Allan Wednesday morning that completion of the facility should occur in between one to two years and probably in the fall of 1995. The final decision to begin work will come from the commuter rail services division of the MBTA, Morgan said.

"As long as they know Wilmington will be a good working partner, they will move ahead," said McCoy, who also serves as Wilmington's representative on the MBTA Advisory Board.

The proposed platform will extend from its present location behind Big Joe's Sandwich Shop to the Sweetheart Plastics road entrance. That road and an eight-foot sidewalk will be paved leading to the parking lot entrance, located adjacent to the tracks. Both the lot and platform will be fully accessible to handicapped patrons.

The project will cost an estimated $1.2 million, of which $750,000 will go towards the demolition and reconstruction of the maintenance building as a state-of-the-art facility on MBTA land in Lowell.

McCoy said the MBTA will pick-up the entire construction tab, with the Town of Wilmington responsible for snow removal and security for the unattended lot. Palmer indicated that the DPW would have no problems with plowing the lot. The site is also likely to be included as part of regular police patrols of the town.

Parking privileges will cost commuters a flat rate of one dollar per day, with collection based on an honor system. The town will receive an undetermined portion of the parking receipts. Weekend and late evening parking will be allowed for Wilmington center business patrons, of whom McCoy said payment should not be expected.

McCoy and Town Manager Michael Cairra are expected to work out a deal for the parking receipts with MBTA Real Estate Bureau members Andrew Warrant and Michael Brennan sometime in the near future.

"We feel we can work out something good on behalf of the town," McCoy stated.

The new station construction is part of Gov. William Weld's plan to increase mass transit use and thus minimize automobile traffic into Boston. The decision to build in Wilmington was further based on three criteria, McCoy said: need - which is undisputed, particularly concerning parking - location, and cost-effectiveness.

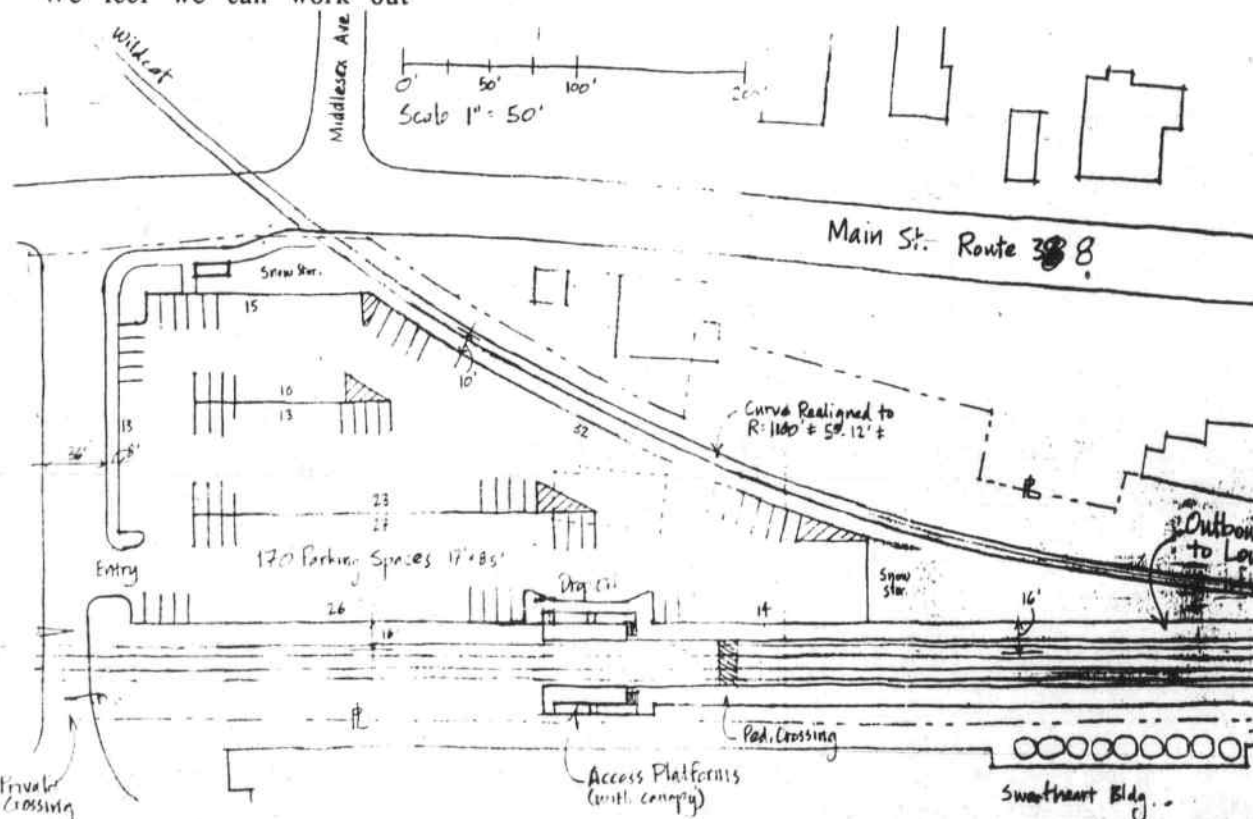

While McCoy cautioned that "anything can happen down the road," he also said he "felt really confident leaving [Wednesday morning's] meeting that [the town is] going to get this.

"As Chairman of the Board of Selectmen and member of the [MBTA] Advisory Board, I'm going to make sure it goes smoothly...I want this thing to go through quickly and rapidly."

To that end, McCoy is calling for the town engineer, the planning board, himself and Cairra to work together with the MBTA toward completion of the station project.

"It will be a big advantage and a plus to the town to have this," he said.

Motorcyclist sought in chase through town

by Jeff Nazzaro

Wilmington Police participated in what Deputy Chief Bernard Nally termed a "somewhat" high speed chase of a man riding high-powered motor cycle along route 62, past Interstate 93 and into North Reading before aborting their end of it.

Nally, who heard reports the man "really wasn't going that fast" through Wilmington called off Officers Jon Shepard - the initial Wilmington respondent - and Robert Richter after the motorist slammed into a State Police Officer attempting to detain the man on foot just over the Wilmington line in North Reading at the corner of Park St and Rt 28. The trooper apparently suffered a broken knee in the collision.

Shepard remained on the scene to assist state police with an identification of the motor cyclist, who fled through North Reading, into Reading, onto Rt 93 and onto Route 128 southbound before detouring north onto Route 3.

State Police lost the suspect, but have identified the owner of the motor cycle.

Man dies in Silver Lake

by Jeff Nazzaro

A 64-year-old Tewksbury man was airlifted to New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham Saturday afternoon where he was pronounced dead after apparently suffering a heart attack while swimming in Silver Lake, Wilmington police say.

Deputy Police Chief Bernard Nally said the man, Robert S. Rodman, of 101 Georgia Rd., had a history of heart problems, including the necessitation of by-pass surgery in 1992.

Rodman, who swam in Silver Lake as part of an exercise regimen, was seen entering the lake from the main beach area by three Wilmington youths, Nally said. After some time in the water, Rodman was discovered unconscious by the three. At that time, an ambulance was summoned.

Wilmington firefighters used a boat and floating device to pull Rodman from the lake and bring him to a MedFlight helicopter waiting in the parking lot fronting the Silver Lake beach.

Rodman was pronounced dead at New England Memorial at 3:45 p.m. Saturday. No official cause of death has been issued by the state medical examiner.

First base action was tense as Dan Pisari stood on base waiting to be driven home. First baseman Matthew Phaup kept a tight watch on the runner. Pisari stars for the Cubbies and Phaup is also a star on the Giants in Wilmington T Ball. (photo by Erik Neilson)

State police to host boxing Wilmington

Friday June 10 at 7:30 p.m. the Massachusetts State Police Boxing Team will be competing in its 102nd boxing exhibition, which will be hosted by the Aleppo Temple at the Shriners Auditorium in Wilmington.

The Massachusetts State Police Boxing Team is the only State Police boxing team in the United States. It is comprised of troopers of the State Police, along with various local police and correctional officers from across the Commonwealth. They also have had troopers from the Vermont State Police participating in the programs.

The team was formed in 1976 by Tpr. Robert Benoit, Trp. Benoit had 45 professional fights before joining the ranks of the State Police. The first fight as held in Oakham, MA and benefited the Boy Scouts of America. A total of $278.00 was raised. Since that time, bouts have been fought all over the Commonwealth. Members have competed in Denver, CO and New York City. Internationally they have competed in Bermuda each year since 1979, both home and away with a total of 18 competitions with the Bermuda "Bobbies". The fighters have also competed with combatants of the London Metropolitan Police and the Moscow Russia Militia.

November 20, 1993, the group celebrated its 100th bout in Sturbridge, MA. That particular night they were fighting to benefit the Melha Temple of Springfield with proceeds going to the Children's Hospital of Springfield. That event generated $10,900. That amount put the total over $250,000 that the team has raised and donated to diverse charities throughout the Commonwealth. All the participants in the shows, including all of the supporting people, make themselves available on their own time and all the fighters train on their own time.

June 10th, the team will be fighting to benefit the memory of Tpr. Daniel Duffy who died of cancer last year. He was a 15 year veteran of the State Police and was a member of the Boxing Team. All proceeds will go to set up a scholarship fund in Tpr. Duffy's name.

Planning to Retire?

Plan on it with us!

It's easy to believe that a pension and social security will be all you'll need to retire comfortably. Yet, chances are, they'll only cover about half of what it will take. But there's hope. A personal financial planner can show you how putting the right investment, in the right amount can help you retire the way you want. To find out more just give me a call.

Juvenile Diversion Program

On June 4, 1994, the Wilmington Police Department in conjunction with Woburn District Court launched a Juvenile Diversion Program.

This program allows juvenile offenders in the court system to participate in the community policing program. These young adults will beautify local business that have, in the past been victims of vandalism by spray paint or other forms of graffiti.

The local business involved will supply the paint rollers and materials for the project and the court will supply the workers.

Any business interested who would like to be involved in this new program is urged to contact Officer James White at 657-8082.

It's YOUR Money

BY JOYCE BRISBOIS
 Certified Public Accountant

LUMP SUM OR MONTHLY PENSION?

Years ago, a worker had fewer choices at retirement. If he was lucky, he'd get a monthly pension for a number of years or for life. Today, there's often another option: taking out a lump sum and managing the pension business yourself. And that's often the best choice.

For one thing, today's lower interest rates translate into higher lump sum payouts, the amount needed to make up the value of a pension. For another, you probably can get more income from the money than the pension plan promises - and your heirs can get whatever's left.

It's important to have the employer directly transfer the lump sum from the pension plan into an IRA so that taxes will not be withheld, making it more difficult to roll over the full amount. A money-market mutual fund is a good parking place for the money while you decide how to invest it. Some should go into stocks or growth oriented mutual funds to keep up with inflation; some might go into T-bills or bonds for income. Annuities are another choice for a portion of the lump sum.

Retirement planning and taxes are our specialty. Talk to the money experts at

The Tewksbury Police Honor Guard, led by Officer Paul Ringwood (who is a Vietnam veteran) led the way for the Memorial Day parade. Right behind the

A new feature in this year's Tewksbury Memorial Day parade was a mechanized appearance by the Kora Log Rollers, from the Kora Shrine. The group drove miniature trucks (note the size of the driver) in tight formation, to the amusement of parade watchers.

Point of view

Well done!

by Stu Neilson

As a participant in both Tewksbury and Wilmington Memorial Day activities as a Wilmington Minuteman I was proud of the number of people who turned out to watch and participate in the activities. The respect and honor given to all the marchers and the deceased veterans was, as usual for these towns of ours, heartwarming.

Should the Memorial Day Parade in either town ever be cancelled you can rest assured that I will still march, alone. Just me, and the American Legion, and the V.F.W., and the Gold Star Mothers, and the D.A.V., and the Girl Scouts, and the High School Band, and the Marine Corps League, and the Knights of Columbus, and the Senior Citizens, and the Boy Scouts, and the rest of the patriotic people of Wilmington and Tewksbury

Letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

Could you allow me a few paragraphs to offer, a bit of "credit where credit is (long, long) over due?"

A firefighter's flag has magically appeared on my father's grave in Wildwood Cemetery, every Memorial Day since 1971 (he was a "call man" many years ago). Like most other people, I never commented, never asked where it came from or even tried to say thank-you to those responsible; until last Sunday evening when we went to decorate his grave and the flag was (as the saying goes) even more conspicuous by its absence!!

As there were others, in appropriate spots throughout the area, we drove to the fire station to ask the question - where was my dad's? We received a reasonable explanation and again, as if by magic, the red and gold banner was flying gallantly from its usual position on Memorial Day morning.

It's been a long time coming, but, thanks, guys, we've have been noticing - really. We've also been noticing for years that there's been, without fail, a firefighters flag on Mr. McLaughlin's (another long-ago "call man") grave in Calvary Cemetery in Woburn.

You're doing OK, we've been remiss, but not much different in that we "didn't miss the water 'til the well ran dry."

Sincerely,
BeeDee

Dear Larz:

The officers of Marine Corps League, Detachment 583 have extended an invitation to fellow Marines, veterans and friends and family of Tom Casey to attend a testimonial dinner that will publicly recognize Tom for his many and varied accomplishments and commitments to veterans' organizations.

Tom spent 12 years on active duty in the US Marine Corps and 20 years in the Marine Corps Reserve. He recently completed his reserve commitment and has now joined the ranks of those in retirement from the Corps. He has been active in a number of veterans' associations including the Marine Corps League, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion and has made significant volunteer contributions over the years to the Knights of Columbus.

Community service also included years as a member of the finance committee, watching over the town's tax dollars and was one of the consistent budget controlling members during his tenure.

It is certainly appropriate to recognize him. All those interested are urged to consider taking part in this evening of appreciation.

Please inform the committee or a member of your organization if you would like to address those present regarding Tom's activities within your particular group. Speakers' remarks will be heard following the dinner.

Dear Sir and Madams:

The enclosed article does exactly what it set out to do, generate interest. Unfortunately, it also exasperated me.

This is the kind of program that we either don't do enough of or we do not hear enough about. Whichever it is, I hope that changes. In this article, I hear about the School Department reaching into this community in service, and that needs to be applauded. Its sports programs do not lack for publicity. I hear about students given an opportunity of growth outside of the classroom (where they will spend most of their lives in the future) and both elderly and students are given opportunity to bond in positive ways, a situation which many Wilmington families are denied for a myriad of reasons.

For the future, I would hope that the town could support this kind of program through its Human Services Department in conjunction with federal grants money and that both the School Department and General Government departments work together to see that more of it happens. These are the things which detoxify the tensions that occur when you both are looking forward for money to satisfy your individual and separate needs.

No further need for lectures.

Sincerely,
Ann L. Yurek

P.S. Above refers to Northwest Weekly article on Wilmington students being paired with residents of Wilmington Woodbriar Nursing Home.

letter to the editor

Dear Larz:

A simple change in law that would immensely benefit the environment while triggering entrepreneurial activity good for the economy would be to allow individuals and organizations to bring citizen lawsuits against polluters under the clean Water Act to keep the money which can run into tens of millions of dollars awarded as penalties (or from out of court settlements) instead of its going to the government, as the law at present requires. Such a change of law - which could be copied in other environmental laws with similar provisions can be expected to spawn hundreds if not thousands of "pollution chasers" environmental entrepreneurs who will have economic incentive to chase down polluters that will be as strong as the economic incentives because of which at present polluters keep polluting. Such a change of law - an exercise of the principle of checks and balances in the private sector - will substantially free the government from a burden that private enterprise will enthusiastically shoulder.

Whatever loss of revenue the government's Superfund - into which the penalty money a present goes - may suffer will be offset many times over by the deterrent effect on polluters that such an unleashing of entrepreneurial environmentalism will have. At present such citizen lawsuits are brought by environmental organizations - often tax exempt - which sustain themselves by painfully extracting (often by dinner time phone calls felt as annoying or even harassing) 20 or 30 dollar donations from thousands of usually reluctant contributors who complain of this as an assault on their quality of life.

The change in law proposed above will make all this unnecessary and let the social good such organizations aim for be achieved more efficiently, painlessly and profitably. Many of those who at present work for such organizations can be expected to be the first among the new entrepreneurs. (Postcards and letters in support of the above proposal may be sent to: P.O. Box 2029, Cambridge, MA 02238).

Sincerely,
Satish Chandra

Tewksbury schools receive grant funds

Wednesday, May 25, Dr. Joseph Walsh, director of curriculum in Tewksbury, reported that the Tewksbury Public Schools received some $547,981 in grant funds over the past school year. This amount represents an increase of $109,482 over the amount received last year. This increase is almost directly proportional to the new Comprehensive Health Education Grant.

Among the grants received were the Federal Javitz Project Grant entitled, "An Electronic Magnet School." This grant funds an "electronic magnet school" for talented high school math and science students. The students stay in their schools, but receive high quality professional guidance via use of the Internet. The Merrimack Education center coordinates this project which now involves 14 towns in the Merrimack Valley.

A new grant this year is the D.D. Eisenhower Demonstration Professional Development Grant. This competitive grant was received by Tewksbury and its funds are used to videotape two intensive science integration/project based programs. One of the programs, "The Massachusetts Seashore," is taught in the fifth grade at the North Street School by Ms. Alma Davis. The other is taught by Ms. Trudi Hennemuth at the Trahan School, and the focus of this project is "Dinosaurs in New England." These projects are being videotaped and will be shown to educators across the state during the next school year.

Next year many of the entitlement and competitive grants that are administered by the State Department of Education will be collected together into a "Unified Request for Proposals." Under this new process, the grant application procedure has been streamlined to eliminate duplication of technical information and to provide for a common date of application. The new date for the Unified Proposal is June 7, 1994, and Tewksbury is preparing requests for some 14 grants in this time period.

Call 508-851-6044 for more information.

To get to the Burlington Health Center, take Route 128 North or South to Exit 33A, and follow Route 3A South for 1/4 mile. The Center is located on the left at 20 Wall Street, with plenty of parking behind the building.

So take a break from the strain of your routine on June 11, and let HCHP outline a healthy lifestyle plan for you.

Tewksbury Rotary names "Hats Off" winners

Seniors Elizabeth A. Winslow, daughter of Shirley and Robert Winslow and Jeanne K. Selissen, daughter Marianne and Jerome Selissen, have been named "Hats Off" winners for the Month of May by Principal William J. DeGregorio of Tewksbury Memorial High School (TMHS).

Elizabeth Winslow

Elizabeth is ranked 15th in her class of 210 seniors. She was elected to the National Honor Society during her junior year and has participated in the Peer Tutor Program which provides help for students experiencing academic difficulty. She has maintained honor roll status during her four years at TMHS and is a National Merit Scholarship Commended Student.

During her junior year she was enrolled in an Advanced Placement American History course and successfully completed the exam, earning college credit while still attending high school. She is currently enrolled in Advanced Placement Physics and Advanced Placement British Literature courses and has taken exams for both.

Elizabeth attended creative writing, sociology, British Romanticism and American Social History courses at Merrimack College as part of a special program which will grant her college credit upon successful completion of the courses. Merrimack College has made this opportunity available to selected high school students in the area.

She was selected to the National Latin Honor Society in her junior year and was silver medalist in the National Latin exam given that year. This places her among top students in the country sitting for that exam. She was also a recipient of an award given for writing in the competition sponsored by the National Foundation for the Advancement of the Arts.

As a member of the International Club during grades 10 and 11, she took part in the French Exchange program hosting a French student in her sophomore year and traveled to France when she was a junior. In grades nine and 10 she was a member of the Drama Club that took part in the Globe Drama Festival. For the past two years Elizabeth has taken part in "Walktoberfest" to raise funds for the American Diabetes Association. She also volunteered five hours a week at Blair House in the Adopt a Grandparent Program to help the elderly and currently works several hours a week at Osco Drug.

In grades nine through 11 she ran spring track, earning a varsity letter for her junior year. She also ran winter track in grades 10 and 11. Elizabeth plans to attend Cornell University as an English major.

Tewksbury Rotary Club recognized TMHS students Jeanne Selissen (left) and Elizabeth Winslow for their academic achievements last week, naming them the latest winners of the monthly Hats Off awards. The students were introduced to the club by TMHS guidance counselor John Maloy.

Jeanne Selissen

Jeanne is ranked 16th in her senior class; she was inducted into the National Honor Society at TMHS during her junior year and takes part in the Peer Tutoring Program. She has maintained honor roll status all four of her high school years and was elected to the National Latin Honor Society as a junior when she won a ribbon at the Massachusetts State Convention of the Junior Classical League.

This year she was the "Majority Whip" in the mock trial conducted in Mr. MacDougall's Social and Political Action class and during her junior year she was a group leader in an American pageant class. Jeanne is serving as head typist on the staff of the "Scroll" the school's yearbook.

Jeanne has played on softball teams in the Tewksbury Town League for the past four years and was selected for the All Star Team as a ninth grader. She has been a varsity player on the high school softball team for the past three years and the volleyball team the past two years.

Throughout her high school career she has volunteered her services for the Patriotic Activities Committee and has taken part in the Walk for Hunger during the past three years.

Jeanne has danced for the Broadway Dance academy for the past four years and was recognized for her talent.

Jeanne has worked part time at a reporting service for the past three years and worked at Subway during her junior and senior years.

She plans to major in paralegal studies at Johnson and Wales University.

Ryon McCabe tops honors list

Ryon M. McCabe, son of Mrs. Nancy Murphy of Ormond Beach, Fla., formerly of Wilmington and the late John McCabe, has graduated from Florida State University College of Law, having earned the greatest number of awards in the history of the University.

He is a Book Award recipient, President of Moot Court/Mock trial teams, AFLT Champion, Tulane Mardi Gras Invitational. Sports

Law Champion, Florida Bar Robert Orseck Memorial Best Oralist; San Diego National Criminal Procedure quarter. Finalist, Research/Student Assistant, Intern with Attorney General Appellate Oxford Program, Grad. Phi Delta Phi.

Ryon is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kelley of Daytona Beach, Fla. and the late Margaret and Cornelius McCabe.

Hastings takes his friends for a ride

Wilmington's Jim Hastings joined over 300 other bicycling enthusiasts in completing a three-day, 150-mile bike trip along the New Hampshire/Maine sea coast to benefit the American Lung Association of New Hampshire.

Hastings, who commutes via bicycle to his job at Charles River Labs, employed the help of many of his fellow Wilmington residents in raising over $1000 for the ALA.

For a nominal donation, friends, neighbors, coworkers and local merchants autographed the shirt worn by Hastings on his trek for charity.

"I never felt the added weight," Hastings said of the signature-laden shirt, adding that the jersey drew many favorable comments from fellow bikers.

Hastings said that given the responses he suspects his $1000-plus fundraising method, which helped place him among the top ten earners for the American Lung Association bike trip, will be duplicated by some charitable cyclists for next year's event.

Miceli opposes "Racing Action Ticket"

Representative James R. Miceli (D-Tewksbury/Wilmington) recently discussed the actions and results of the past few weeks that have brought local aid money back to Tewksbury and Wilmington.

"I have always felt it is my duty and my pleasure to serve my constituency," Miceli said. "My recent actions on Beacon Hill further demonstrate my commitment to the local communities in my district."

The recent "Racing Action Ticket" proposal, which would have given money from the sale of the Racing Action scratch ticket put out by the Lottery to racing track, caused a public uproar.

Miceli was one of several Legislators who insisted lottery monies should not go to private industry and co-sponsored an amendment giving the money back to the cities and towns. He voted for the amendment, but it was defeated on the House Floor. A separate amendment which created a sweepstakes ticket to be sold only at the racetracks was then approved unanimously. This would mean that no lottery monies being diverted from the cities and towns.

Rep. Miceli also voted to increase funding for communities in the Transportation Bond Bill under Chapter 90. The unexpected windfall which Miceli pushed through would give Tewksbury $752,648 increasing their funding by $487,756 over a two year period, and would give Wilmington $1,158,520 increasing their funding by $416,538 over a two year period.

These funds are given to cities and towns for the repair, improvement, construction or reconstruction of roads, bridges and sidewalks at the discretion of the community. Language was also included to broaden the scope of use by including engineering services for these projects, and the erection and maintenance of traffic lights and warning signs.

Rep. Miceli also announced the Department of Revenue recently released the Fiscal Year 1995 Cherry Sheets showing the amount of aid to communities. Both Wilmington and Tewksbury will enjoy increased state aid including increases in the Municipal Stabilization Aid of an additional $85,000 in Tewksbury and $40,000 in Wilmington.

During the long budget debate, there were numerous tax cut amendments offered, many increasing exemptions on state taxes, and Rep. Miceli supported them all. These cuts paired with the increased funding for both towns is a great victory for communities in Miceli's district. "I am quite pleased that I have been able to engross legislation to provide for the communities in my district," Miceli concluded.

Perennials.

Some groundwork for beginners that the experts might read, too.

Although Mahoney's has been the perennial resource for serious gardeners for over 30 years, we're also mindful of the beginners out there. Here a few thoughts we hope are helpful:

There's A Gazillion Of 'Em.

There are an incredible number of perennials for the novice to discover, and exciting new hybrids being added daily. To get a real feel of the selection we humbly suggest a visit to Mahoney's. We have the largest selection in New England - of the traditional favorites and the latest hybrids. They come in every imaginable color and height for every area around the home. Each year we sell over 250,000 perennials. But don't let our selection overwhelm you. Our perennial tables are organized and labeled with color photographs so you can easily identify them. And even though there are literally thousands of them, we know each perennial by name. We can tell you about their size, color and growth habits. Just ask.

The Mahoney's Bargain, the proof is in the pot.

Our perennials are the best buy in town. All you have to do is compare. Mahoney's-grown perennials come in jumbo 1-gallon pots, not the little Dixie-sized cups. In these big pots are big mature roots - with a big head-start over the average store-bought perennial. Bigger roots offer bigger benefits - they are stronger and produce more and larger flowers sooner. Fact is, nobody gives you more perennial for your money.

Different Perennials Bloom At Different Times Of Year.

With just a little planning you can have ever-changing, never-ending color from early spring till after the first frost. All of our perennials have their flowering season clearly labeled so that you can mix and match easily. Beautiful!

Now Comes The Fun Part.

Playing with different colors, sizes and textures is what make flower gardening so much fun. The best way to learn is to just dig in.

"D-Day" at the West

Christy Ross pins a flower on Joe Balestrieri at the West Intermediate Memorial Day assembly.

Vietnam veteran Fred Shine brought his "four friends," monuments to four men who died in Vietnam.

At their traditional Memorial Day salute the students of the West Intermediate School in Wilmington chose to honor and study the veterans of World War II. Focusing on D-Day they spent a month preparing. In an assembly on Friday they listened to a variety of speakers, including Fred Shine, a Vietnam vet, Joe Balestrieri, Tony Cunningham and Frank McLean, all WWII vets and Supt. of Schools Geraldine O'Donnell.

Fred Shine brought photos of the four monuments to Wilmington men who were killed in Vietnam. He said, "Go to these squares and honor our heroes," referring to the 17 memorials around town which honor the dead from all the wars. McLean had three main thoughts for the youngsters. One to study what had happened and what can be learned from it: "What was Hitler trying to do? What was Tojo trying to do? Are there people today trying to do the same thing?" And he reminisced about his childhood as he said, "Everybody would put on their white ducks and go down and watch the parade. Nobody wears white ducks today." The he finished with three of the worst words in the English language. Words that he said should be eliminated, "woulda, coulda & shoulda."

Tony Cunningham had a hard point to drive home. He told of his experience in Germany at the close of WWII as he was finding death camps. "I was one of those troops who went into those camps. We went to the towns and had the men and women carry the bodies to the graves. It really happened!" He was referring to the Holocaust. Even at the end of the war he knew people would start denying that it ever happened and he wanted there to be German civilian eyewitnesses. Dr. O'Donnell closed the speeches with, "It is for all of those who did not come home that we gather today."

The students of the West Intermediate also made presentations of flowers to each of the speakers and other veterans who work at the school.

Laura Bradbury was one of the students hold flags as Custodian Dan Clifford came forward to be honored as a veteran.

10 years ago

The June 6, 1984 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Wilmington was wrestling with two major underground problems. The high school had a major oil leak and the septic system failed at the Shawsheen School.

Wilmington's housing situation improved slightly when the Housing Authority voted to eliminate one of two sites under consideration for additional housing for the elderly. The Authority voted to pursue the proposal to enlarge Deming Way and to drop the proposal for construction on a site near Eastgate Plaza.

Compugraphic advertised an open house "with very impressive benefits." Openings were available on both the first and second shift for inspectors and assemblers, experienced or entry-level.

First aid course offered

Winchester Hospital offers a Standard First Aid Course teaching lifesaving medical techniques such as CPR, rescue breathing, choke-saving, control of severe bleeding, first aid for broken bones and treatment for poison and burn victims.

After completing this course, participants will have the skills and knowledge to assist accident victims who are in potential death and disabling situations.

This two part course is offered from 6 to 10 p.m. June 2 and 9 at the Woburn YMCA and June 7 and 14 at Winchester Hospital.

To register and for price information contact Winchester Hospital's Community Health Institute at (617) 756-2220.

Miceli gets funding for COA

Representative James R. Miceli (D-Tewksbury/Wilmington) has demonstrated his commitment to the elderly once again by nearly doubling the grant pool used to fund Councils on Aging throughout the state.

Councils receive funding based upon the number of seniors in their service delivery area. Miceli's actions will raise the amount per elder from $1.81 to $3.00 and will add extra support for other activities.

"I am pleased to offer my support on Beacon Hill for senior citizens and Councils on Aging throughout Massachusetts, but my priorities are still with Wilmington and Tewksbury," Miceli said in conclusion. "I hope this action will help local seniors experience a better quality of life."

Mass T-shirt design of Tech student

When Massachusetts competitors go to the National Skill Olympics in June, they will wear t-shirts designed by a student from Shawsheen Tech.

Shawn Mahoney, son of Elaine and Edwin Mahoney of Wilmington, a senior specializing in technical illustration/commercial design at the Tech, and a member of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA), the sponsoring organization for the district, state and national competitions, sketched a design that included a map of Massachusetts as a scroll wrapped around the VICA torch.

"Great!" was Shawn's reaction when he heard in January that his design would appear on all the t-shirts for state and national competitors from Massachusetts. "I was surprised, but knew I had a good design," said Shawn. "I worked really hard on it, and showed it to a lot of people who liked it before I sent it in," he said.

The job wasn't over once the sketch was chosen, however. Shawn had to create the color separations for the four color design that included lettering with 1994 VICA theme, "Empowered to Lead," as well as the stars and stripes emblazoned state map and the gold torch.

Back in the fall, the process began with thumbnail sketches. Shawn said he was both excited and proud when the shirts arrived at the Fitchburg site of the April Mass. Skill Olympics, and most of the 650 participants wore them to the opening ceremonies. His parents, who attended, "were wicked excited," he said. The dozen extras Shawn received were quickly scarfed up by friends and family. In Fitchburg, Shawn received a plaque congratulating him on his chosen design, and indicating that there would be 3000 shirts around the state with his design.

Shawn's expertise in advertising design was demonstrated in another way when he won the gold medal in the practical skill competition at the Mass. Skill Olympics. As the first place winner, he will represent Mass. in this category at the National Skill Olympics in Kansas City, June 25 to July 2.

A graduating senior at the Tech, Shawn has been accepted to Mass. College of Art where he will consider majors in graphic design, illustration, and/or industrial design. A honor student, he is a member of the peer leadership group and VICA. In his spare time he continues to draw and airbrush, although he also plays volleyball and enjoys watching sports on tv.

He is now looking for a full time summer job in desktop publishing, advertising design or newspaper/newsletter composition.

Wilmington Women's Club

Representing the Wilmington Women's Club, members Jean Hartika, Marion Woller, Barbara Dayton and Doris Haridan attended the organization's Annual Convention at the Sea Crest Hotel and Convention Center in North Falmouth from May 11-13. Almost 500 members represented over 200 local women's clubs from the Commonwealth, and this convention was the culmination of the year's events featuring speakers on many subjects as well as club awards, individual achievement awards and scholarship presentations. President Tina Macrina from Brockton presided.

Over $25,000 in scholarships was presented to undergraduate and graduate students at the convention. Ten $2,000 awards were presented for graduate study in the fields of astronomy, journalism and medical research/cancer. Additional scholarships were presented for study in music, art, education and international study to Massachusetts students who have been endorsed by their local women's clubs.

Speakers for the convention included Beverly Beckham, columnist for the Boston Herald; Dr. Leslie Lewis, from the National Forum; Marge Piercy, novelist/feminist; Ann Richardson from Reading is Fundamental (RIF); Jeanne Bakelar from Responsible Environmental Action Program (REAP); and George Newman, a Revolutionary War expert.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

SMALL BUSINESS MAJOR MEDICAL

QUESTION: I have a small business with only 5 employees. Do you have to be a large corporation in order to get major medical coverage for a business as small as mine?

ANSWER: Company size has no limit on the size of your company benefits. Now, if you have two to fifty employees you can have "big business" benefits like Comprehensive Major Medical coverage with a million dollar lifetime maximum; life insurance up to $50,000 and Optional Dental Benefits.

There's no reason why you should settle for less. These small business group rates are lower than you would imagine. We'll be glad to explain them.

VERY SMALL BUSINESSES can get major medical coverage just like big companies.

Notes on home selling

If you're like most people your home is the biggest investment you'll ever make. When it comes time to sell, you'll be facing an extremely emotional decision and a major financial transaction.

Most homes don't sell themselves. The time and trouble spent attracting prospects, showing them your home, finding out what their needs are, saying just the right things to them, handling all the sensitive negotiations, and completing the details and paperwork could be very costly in personal and financial terms.

Fortunately there are ways to make things go smoothly. One way is to hire a competent, knowledgeable agent. A good agent does a lot more than just put up a yard sign to attract a few buyers. Here are the services you should expect the agent you hire to provide:

- Accurate market data on current sales and current homes on the market to assist you in setting a price that attracts buyers and leaves room for negotiating.
- Assistance in preparing and enhancing your home for sale.
- Estimate your selling cost.
- Explain showing process.
- Prepare and provide a detailed listing sheet to prospective buyers and agents.
- Submit your home to the multiple listing services (MLS).
- Place a for sale sign on your property.

- Arrange for the agents in his/her office to preview your home.
- Target the market for your home to determine who the most likely buyers will be, and judge the best way to reach them.

- Expose your home to potential buyers through a proven marketing program.
- Advertise your home.
- Communicate regularly with you about prospects' reactions and any changes in market conditions.

- Qualify prospects. Weed out the half-interested buyer and drive-bys who are more curious about seeing your home than buying it.
- Show your home effectively.
- Present and explain all written offers.

- Help you negotiate price, terms and conditions most favorable to you.

- Handle all necessary paperwork and perform all the leg work involved in final negotiations.
- Follow through on buyers' financing.
- See that all contingencies in the agreement are met.
- Guide you through the complicated settlement and closing procedures.

In addition to all the services listed above, the agent is required under Commonwealth of Massachusetts Regulations to provide you with a disclosure form that states who they will represent in the sale of your home. One of the most important areas of discussion is the policy of the office in regard to agency representation. In other words, who will they represent on the sale of your home. Is it their office policy to represent sellers only or do they represent buyers as well?

An agent who works for a company representing sellers only will be able to provide you with total agency representation. They will owe to you the seller, the legal duties of loyalty, confidentiality, obedience, care, accounting and disclosure. In other words, to work effectively toward the goal of providing you with the best possible price, at the best terms and conditions, in the shortest period of time and with the least inconvenience.

As a homeowner, you need to decide which company and agent will provide you with the services you are looking for and which company's policy best fits your needs.

Auto Sense

by Jim Boudreau

KEEPING AN EYE ON AUTOMOBILES

Although the automatic transmission is the most complex mechanical device to be found on a modern car, its maintenance requirements are relatively simple. One task that car owners can perform for themselves in this regard involves checking the transmission fluid level on a monthly basis. In most cases, this means checking the fluid level on the transmission dip stick, with the car at operating temperature and the transmission shifted into neutral. Automatic transmissions also have filters which should be changed every two years (or 30,000 miles). This is a job for the auto technician. Filters are designed to remove metal shavings that result from transmission wear. If filter changes are neglected, it can leave these particles free to clog tiny valves and cause rough shifts.

Since automatic transmissions require different maintenance than a manual transmission, you need a technician who is equally skilled with both types of cars. That's what you'll find at BOUDREAU'S AUTOMOTIVE SERVICE CENTER. Visit us for superior service at competitive prices. We've been satisfying customers for the last 22 years. In fact, our customers are our best advertisement! We do all types of internal engine work, as well as routine maintenance. All of it is backed by a one year warranty on parts and labor. ## WHS Band offers a clean deal

 The Wilmington High School marching band, replete with brand new uniforms, looked great marching in Monday's Memorial Day Parade. Now, the Wildcat band would like to do the same for your car.

This Sunday, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., the band will hold a carwash at McNamara Tire on Main Street to help raise funds for to replace instruments and other equipment, furnish band camp scholarships for local marching musicians, and help out the junior high school band. The cost of the carwash is three dollars.

In July, to raise further funds to purchase what one band parent referred to as "stuff that can't be accommodated in the regular school budget," the band will host a flea market on the Town Common. The date for the flea market is set at July 23, with the 30th of that month serving as a rain date.

Mosquito spraying in Tewksbury & Wilmington

The Central Massachusetts Mosquito Control Project (C.M.M.C.P.) will be spraying locally June 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30.

The agency has been treating areas throughout this community where mosquito larvae are found. This larviciding of breeding sites will continue throughout the summer months, as will the water management programs.

The ultra low volume spray operations will be conducted in residential and recreational areas where heavy mosquito populations are found.

Anyone who wishes to have their property excluded from spraying should notify the town clerk and the C.M.M.C.P.

Miceli gets money for elevator at Deming Way Extension

State Representative James R. Miceli (D-Tewksbury/Wilmington) has succeeded in placing additional funding in the Executive Office of Communities and Development (EOCD) portion of the Budget which has specifically earmarked $100,000 for an elevator at Deming Way Extension.

Miceli feels strongly about this project saying: "There is a definite need for an elevator in this building. Many seniors have trouble carrying their groceries and other packages up to the second floor...An elevator would be a great help to these residents."

This allocation has been accepted into the House version of the budget which is now awaiting action in the Senate. The Senate and House versions will then go to a Conference Committee where a compromise will be reached and sent to the Governor.

Rep. Miceli was also successful in getting this money last year, but it was not included in the Senate version and was therefore eliminated in Conference Committee. He is hopeful that the proposed elevator money will make it to the final version of the budget this year.

Miceli, along with other members of the delegation brought EOCD Secretary Mary Padula out for a site visit of Deming Way extension last year. She has given her approval for a lift to be installed.

House toughens law on dead-beat parents

The Massachusetts House of Representatives has increased funding for the state's child support enforcement program by $800,000 in an attempt to further tighten what are considered the toughest child support laws in the nation.

Miceli commented on his actions saying, "If this funding is adopted, it will provide child support programs with the additional resources needed to track down absent parents. This (money) will save taxpayers millions of dollars down the line in welfare and other costs."

The Department of Public Welfare conducted studies that indicate 40 percent of all welfare families could be self sufficient if the second parent was paying child support.

The new law would grant the state power to refuse the renewal of drivers' or professional licenses for people who owe child support. It also requires hospitals to provide unmarried parents with an opportunity to acknowledge parentage at the time of birth and enhances the state's ability to levy bank accounts.

Open invitation to Reading's 350th

Reading's 350th Committee has extended an invitation to its neighbors:

Parades come and parades go, but Reading's 350th Anniversary celebration parade will be the parade you will remember for years to come. Beginning at the corner of Birch Meadow Drive and Main Street at 2 p.m. Saturday June 4, the parade will wind down Main Street, south (toward the depot) on Haven Street, left on High Street past the reviewing stand in the depot area, left on Washington Street across Main Street and continue until it ends (approximately two hours later) at Newcrossing Road.

Contributions from five major sponsors of the parade - M.F. Charles (Aleppo Temple Shriners marching unit), the real estate offices of Colonial Manor (Tony Barrie Concert and Marching Band) and Carlson (Stuart Highland Pipe Band), Reading Police Patrolman's (Boston Police Gaelic Column of Pipes & Drums) and Reading Firefighters (Gaelic Fire Brigade) Associations, the Lions Club (Naval Brigade Band), Shawmut Bank and John W. Shaw's Plumbing & Heating - as well as many individual citizens have helped make Reading's Anniversary Celebration Parade a reality. In addition, town and school organizations as well as many other volunteer groups and businesses will play a major role in presenting over 100 different forms of crowd-pleasing entertainment which will include clowns, fire trucks (old and new), antique cars and trucks, 15 marching bands, 23 floats, 15 military related units including the Army National Guard, Marine Corp, Coast Guard, Air Force and Navy color guards and bands. Tradition dictates that a parade end with a fire truck. Reading will break from this tradition when members of the 350th Parade Committee act as an escort to the 350th Anniversary cake.

The Anniversary Cake, sponsored by Shawmut Bank and Shaw's Plumbing & Heating, will signal the end of the parade and the beginning of JUBILEVE - Reading's very own night of fun, fantasy and magic!

JUBILEVE buttons are on sale at stores throughout Reading that display the JUBILEVE and 350th logo and at Town Hall. Beginning Sunday, May 29, buttons will cost $5. The handmade JUBILEVE buttons will be your ticket to participate in JUBILEVE events scheduled to take place throughout the town from the moment the parade ends until 11 p.m. when a music and light show will bring the busiest day of Reading's 350th celebration to an end.

Trolley cars (supported by Old Town Trolley and sponsored League of Women Voters and MassBank) will transport everyone wearing a JUBILEVE button up and down Main Street as well as via Woburn Street and other specified locations to assist people in getting to activities outside the immediate downtown area. There are approximately 43 "acts" scheduled to perform or display their talents. The program of events and a map of JUBILEVE activities will be available at locations where buttons are sold.

In the spirit of sharing our common heritage, the Town of Reading and the 350th Anniversary Committee extends an invitation to the citizens of the neighboring villages. Everyone is welcome to come and enjoy the June 4th festivities. Take the children you know and the child in your heart to Reading on June 4 - be a part of the 350th magic! For additional information on the Celebration Parade, call Reading Town Hall at 944-9050. Anna Carroll, owner of the Hot Spot on Haven Street can answer questions on JUBILEVE, 942-5777.

Donna Miceli Dance Center bound for Disney World

The Youth Dance Company and Kidsdance Co. from the Donna Miceli Dance Center in Tewksbury have received special invitations to perform at Disney World in Orlando, Florida this summer and a dedicated group of parent volunteers has mounted a year long fundraising effort to support the 28 young dances from Tewksbury, Wilmington, Lowell, Chelmsford, Andover and Billerica in their goal to be Disney World bound. The final event planned for this season is a "Destination Disney Dance Party" to be held Friday, June 3 from 8 p.m. to midnight at the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks, 777 South St., Tewksbury. Tickets for adults are $7.50 and will be available at the door.

The companies, comprised of talented youngsters ages 11-18 will present "The Great American Way" and "Dancing in the Streets," two performances specially designed for Disney World audiences at Epcot Center's World Pavilion on July 11 and 12. Proceeds from the upcoming dance party and other fundraising programs held throughout the year help defray costs for new choreography commissioned from guest artists, costumes and travel expenses.

Locally, the companies can be seen in performance at Durgin Hall, UMass-Lowell South campus, Sunday, June 12 at 7 p.m. In addition to jazz excerpts from the repertory planned for Disney, the companies will present two new concert-length ballet pieces, Cinderella's Ball and Western Symphony, which also feature professional dancers from Boston. To reserve tickets for the June 12 performance, call the Donna Miceli Dance Center at 851-5552.

Wilmington senior topics

Social has openings

There are still openings for the June 8 therapeutic social. Those who have not signed up, the dinner will be held in the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks Hall beginning at 7 p.m. This is the last social of the 1993-94 budget and the non-refundable deposit is only $3. The cutoff date has been extended to allow seniors arriving home after being away for months, the opportunity to renew friendships at the social.

Fair committee

The Fair Committee has some very nice caps and spring sports shirts marked with the Town of Wilmington logo. The Baldwin Apple was drawn by art teacher George Webster. (Wilmington, for those who are not aware, is known as the Home of the Baldwin Apple). To clear the shelves in preparation for this year's Fall Fair, the committee is selling the hats at $6.50 and the shirts for $12.95, just about what the committee paid for them. A hat or sport shirt would make a great Father's Day gift. Drop in and look them over. Take your children, friends and neighbors. The committee needs the shelves for 1995 Fair materials.

Surplus commodities

Friday, June 3 surplus commodities will be distributed at the Buzzell Senior Center, 15 Church Street to all low income residents of Wilmington young and elderly. A large number of items is expected, but unfortunately many of them will be small in cases. Some we will get only one or two cases, others perhaps eight to 10 cases. To try and split them evenly, we will have the bags packed with the same number of articles, but not the same ones in each bag. When arriving, please have with you, proof of qualification. That is, Medicaid, fuel assistance, Welfare, WIC, SSI or food stamps card.

Many local seniors are qualified but don't apply. The qualifying figures are posted near the door of the Center and on the table in the craft room. Those with incomes within the figures on the paper should sign under qualifying income the words "Income Level." The distribution will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Any senior under the Medicare system with monthly income near the National Poverty Level, i.e. $601 for an individual or $806 for a couple, may have Medicare premiums of $41.10 a month and hospital and physicians deductibles paid through the State of Massachusetts. Contact the Welfare Office in Woburn.

NOVENA to

ST. JUDE

May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us, and St. Jude, the worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, helper of the hopeless, pray for us.

Say this prayer nine times a day, by the 8th day your prayer will have been answered. This prayer has never been known to fail. Publication promised. My prayers have been answered.

J.O.B.

A Prayer to the Blessed Virgin

(Never found to fail)

O Most beautiful Flower of Mount Carmel, Fruitful Vine, Splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this my necessity. O Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my Mother.

O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart, to succor me in this necessity; there are none that can withstand your power.

O, show me herein you are my Mother. O Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee. (3 times) Sweet Mother, I place this cause in your hands. (3 times)

Say for 3 consecutive days and publish. God Bless R.M.P.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

O Holy Spirit, You who enlightens me, who illuminates all things so I may attain my goal. You who gives me the divine gift of forgiving and forgetting the evil done to me and who is ever with me at all moments of my life, I wish during this short dialogue with You to thank You for everything and to confirm once again my wish to never be separated from You, even and in spite of all material glory. I desire to be with You in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and all who are dear to me.

(Recite this prayer three days in succession. After the three days, the favor or grace requested will be obtained, even if it appear to be of a difficult nature. As proof of God's favor, publish this entire card as soon as possible in a newspaper without specifying the nature of your request, and sign the publication with the initials of the person so favored.

Softball team well represented

by James Pote
The Wilmington High School Softball team sure represented themselves in great fashion. Pitcher Adrienne Fay, second baseman Nancy Pote and centerfielder Leanne Harris were all named to the all conference team and they will also appear in the all star game. Shortstop Laurie Southmayd and her freshmen sister catcher Lisa were also named to the all star squad.

Fay ended her regular season with her eighth shutout of the year over Methuen. This was a one-hit gem which put her to 17-1 overall with an earned run average of 0.60.

She has a combined record of 37-3 in the two years that she has been at WHS thus far.

Both Pote and Harris were in the league leaders for batting for most of the year. The former, a junior, came up with a number of timely and game winning hits. Her defense was spectacular throughout the season.

The latter, a sophomore, also had a number of timely hits that usually started the rallies. With her quick speed, she was able to stretch a lot of base hits into extra base hits, and she also was able to track down a lot of room in centerfield.

One of the co-captains and current leadoff hitter Laurie Southmayd also deserved the ticket to the all star game. Her solid range made her able to track down a lot of tough grounders. Laurie also brings a solid bat with her. It seems as if she always had something to do with starting a big rally.

Finally, freshmen Lisa Southmayd will be making her first trip as one of the catchers. Lisa immediately filled the void left by Carrie Tarantino with both her bat and most especially her arm and glove.

Lisa was very solid behind the plate. Her ability to block the plate against some runners in a few big situations enabled the girls to have their 18-2 overall record. Her performances against both Billerica (where she threw out three runners in the first two innings while pitching the last two innings to get the win) and Lawrence only proved how valuable she really is to the team.

On Thursday, the drawing will be held to determine who the team will play in the first round of tournament play. It is most likely that they will be seeded third behind Reading and Bostin Latin who are currently undefeated.

Baseball team finishes on 'unperfect' note

by James Pote
Despite the 2-18 record, the WHS Baseball team has a lot of optimism to look forward to.

This past weekend, the team held a four team tournament where they faced Reading on Saturday morning to kick off the tournament.

Reading is considered the top team in Division two. Their starting pitcher Matt Stinson previously only made two relief innings prior to this start. He pitched a perfect game. A 3-0 blanking that was kept by his tremendous defense.

"The kid (Matt Stinson) pitched very well. They are a great team. Their defense played exceptionally well. Against any other team we would of had a bunch of base hits. I'm disappointed that we didn't get any hits, but I'm not disappointed in the way we played", said Head Coach Dick Scanlon.

On Monday afternoon, Wilmington wrapped up their season with a 3-1 loss to Malden Catholic. After losing in the divisional finals to Lincoln-Sudbury last year, MC is headed into tournament play with this win over the Wildcats.

Dave Dussault again pitched very well going the distance. He scattered three runs- all of them unearned while only scattering three hits and three walks.

Wilmington scored their only run in the first inning when Herbie Mason escaped a run down between home and third. He reached there by a single and a two base error by the pitcher who was trying to pick him off.

The Wildcats only had three hits in the game which included two by Greg Peters.

"The second half we played much, much better baseball. Their is a lot of optimism for the next couple of years", continued Scanlon.

Leading the way for the Wildcats in batting was third baseman Dave Fleming who finished the year at .404 clip which included driving in 20 teammates. Freshmen Billy Harrison was second with a .370 mark.

Dussault led the way on the mound. He had both Wildcat wins and he really pitched very solid towards the end of the season.

"Dave is a great player, great athlete and great kid. I will miss him a lot", emphasized Scanlon.

Also leaving spots behind is Cliff Escher who also had a solid season on the mound. Cornermen Steve Walsh at first and Dave Fleming at third. Versatile player Herbie Mason will also be leaving as well as outfielder Mike Tentindo.

ARE YOU A WEEKEND ATHLETE?

Now that the good weather has arrived we are all more active. There are a few things we need to remember in order to avoid injury:

- 1) Warm up exercises help prepare muscles for activity
- 2) Know your limitations - don't be a hero

If an injury should occur, remember this simple rule:

R - Rest - stop the activity immediately!

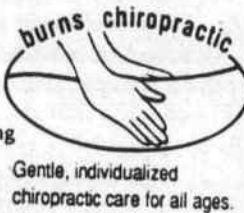

I - Ice cold packs will constrict blood vessels and control swelling

C - Compression - apply an ace bandage to the injured area.

E - Elevate - raise the limb.

If the discomfort is severe or continues, seek professional help.

HAVE A GREAT SUMMER

Can the girls repeat again?

Since the WHS Girls Softball team was the only team in both Wilmington and Tewksbury out of the spring to advance to the tournament play, I figured that I should talk about how they are going to do.

There has been many questions and concerns of whether or not they can repeat as division two champions from last year. I think they can do it. If.....

They continue to get their consistent pitching from Adrienne Fay. If the defense most especially up the middle continues to play up to par. If the top of the order continues to hit the way they are

There are some very good teams out there that will be very hungry to take the championship away from them.

Pote's Chatter - box

by James Pote

capable of. If the bottom of the order can come through will some big base hits. If the team can rely on more than one big inning and more multiple runs innings, they should do exceptionally well.

The two first seeds Bostin Latin and Reading are still undefeated. Lawrence, Dracut and Chelmsford all have good teams. Case High school, who they faced last year in the semi-finals are very good. Amesbury and Newburyport have two very talented pitchers in Jodi Salomon and Kelly Henderson. Wilmington has already beaten Amesbury once this year.

Finally there's Mount Graylock who they faced last year in the championship game. All of their players from last years team are returning.

Then you never know-there could be a surprise team. If Wilmington comes through with all of their "ifs", and their mental approach is their, they will be a few very tough games for them. Hopefully, we will see another championship flag going into the high school gym.

Track teams continue to peak

by James Pote

Out of 34 teams that took part in Saturday's State track meet, the WHS Boys team came away finishing in ninth place with 22 points.

"We did very well today (Saturday). The kids worked really hard and we are very pleased with the outcomes", said Head Coach Frank Kelley who has more more meet left before he officially retires.

Leading the way for the boys was Joel Santorelli who tied his own school record of 11'6" in the pole vault.

Greg Young, who was undefeated throughout the whole year before this meet, finished in third place in the 800 meters with his personal record of 1:57.8.

Young also took part in finishing in second place in the 4 x 400 relay team. He teamed up with Seug Won Kim, Wayne Griggs and Joe Martinello to finish ahead of Tewksbury's relay team. This team had their best time of the year at 3:27.7 which was second in the state behind Westford Academy and ahead of their rivals Tewksbury who ended up winning the Class C.

Martinello also took a fourth place in the 400 meters with a personal best of 51.7 seconds.

As for the girls, Cherri Lawrence was the only one who was able to get a point as she took third place in the long jump with a leap of 15'5".

All of the previous mentioned names have qualified for the all states being held next week.

Little leaguer's idol is Jim Abbott

by James Pote
After the birth of their first son, the last thing Michael and Lisa Ellsworth wanted to hear from the doctor was their new child would never be able to walk, talk or do anything anyone else can do. Michael junior, surely proved the doctors were wrong.

Michael, now ten years old, was diagnosed as a left-hemiplegic (not being able to use his left side of his body) from the moment he was born. With a lot of hard work and determination, he was able to beat the odds that were against him. He now is enjoying every moment playing the sport that he loves—baseball for Wilmington's minor league Giants.

His parents put him into physical and occupational therapy at a treatment center in Stoneham. What started out as rolling as a toddler instead of crawling has developed into belting base hits to left field.

Even right now, Michael is still going through the different types of therapy. Every night at 5:45, he checks off his chart of his 18 stretching and movement exercises he has to do. Whether it's just stretching a tight wrist muscle or picking up a crayon off the floor, he goes through with the same routine every night. Every Monday he has his own therapist come to his house to go over his exercises for nearly an hour.

"He has come a long way. He is very determined and the family is just so proud of what he has accomplished," said his mother Lisa Ellsworth.

Michael has received a lot of help from his family and friends. His brother, Danny who is seven years old, has also been a big help for him. Whether it's been helping him with the chores or just being a brother, the two have been very close.

"I'm so proud of both boys, they are just really great," said his mother. "They really are great kids. Sure they have their fights and different interests just like everyone else but they also pull and help each other a lot", added his father.

His best friend Timmy Hogg has also been there for him since day one. He helps him carry his books, holds the door for him and he always cheers him on. Timmy also showed Michael how to ride a bicycle.

"Timmy is really nice to me. He shows me how to do a lot of things. All of my friends have helped me", said Michael.

Michael has already set and lived up to a number of his goals and dreams. One time when he was at the doctor's office, the doctor had asked him was there any one thing he would like to do. Michael answered that he would like to tie his shoes one day.

He has already accomplished that and many other things which he never planned on doing. He is playing his favorite sport, baseball, which he also thought he would never get the chance to do.

One of his other dreams is to meet his idol Jim Abbott, the left-handed pitcher from the New York Yankees who pitches and catches without a right hand.

"He would be tickled pink if he ever met him", continued his mother.

He would also like to someday follow in Abbott's footsteps with trying to pitch.

"He has been practicing pitching. He really is determined and challenged to do it. With a little more arm strength and a little more practice he might be able to do it", said his father.

Right now Michael is the first baseman and occasional outfielder. He catches with his right hand, then flips his glove onto his left elbow to throw righthanded.

He also bats righthanded. He uses an open stance where his whole body is facing the pitcher, he unloads swinging with just one hand. Thus far, it has worked out for him and he continues to improve hitting the ball for more and more base hits.

"I'm very impressed by the will and determination Michael has. He's a super, super nice kid who is not afraid of anything", said his baseball coach Eddie Collins.

"He is a very determined kid. He's not afraid of the ball. He teaches himself a lot. He has done very well", added his grandfather Nelson Ellsworth.

Not only does he excel as a person, and as a baseball player, but he also does well in school, keeping up solid grades. His mother credits a lot of his success to the teachers and guidance counselors at the Woburn Street School.

"They have been the best. They really have done a lot of work with him. I give them a lot of credit".

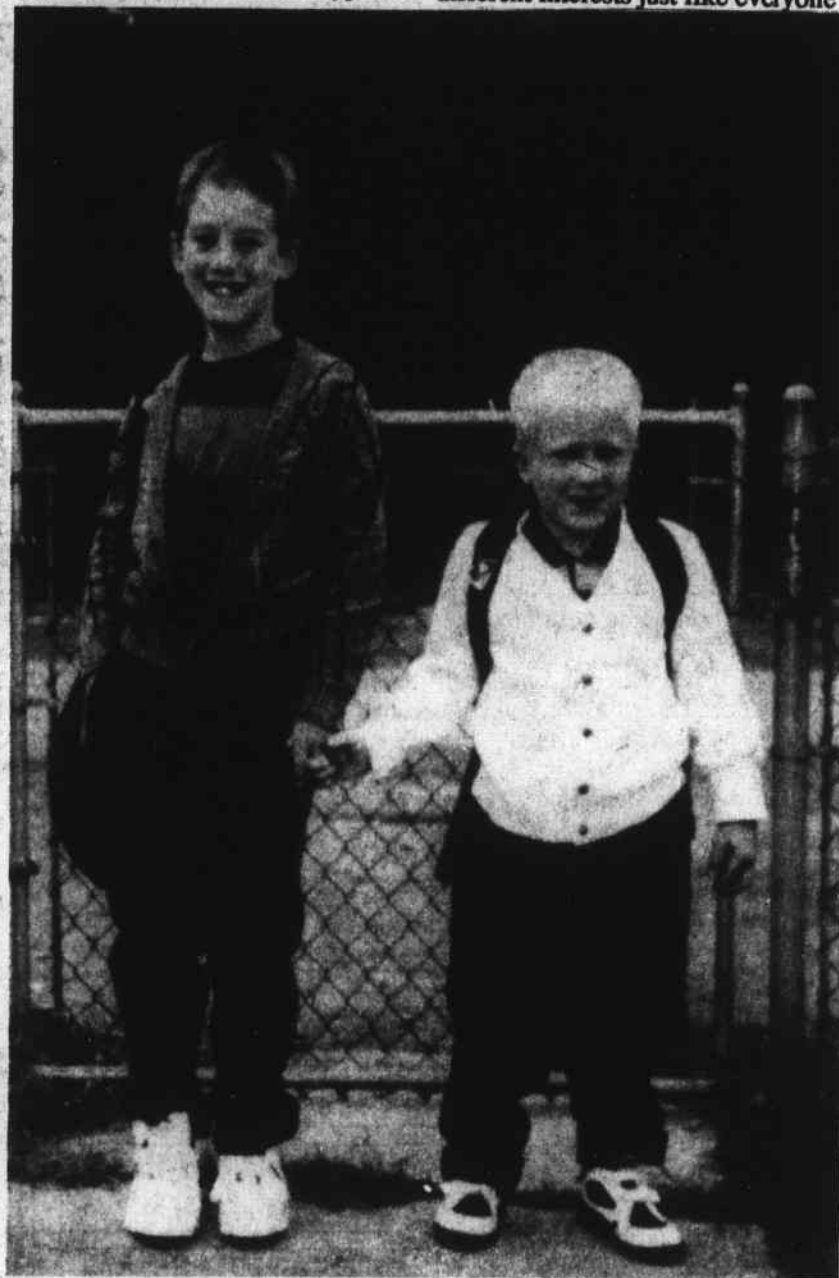

Even with the difficulty and frustration of not being able to do some things, Michael is starting to understand about his handicap. But, that doesn't bring him down at all. It only brings his confidence up.

"I'm used to it (the therapy), it's easy".

Even though he played youth soccer last year and he plays football and street hockey with his

Jaclyn Ingram gets the game MVP for the Rockies. She pitched a great game for the Rockies and made several strong defensive plays as well. Courtney Gilligan and Colleen Cahill supplied the Rockies offensive power.

Angels 11 Mariners 5

The Angels posted their second victory this season against the Mariners who gave them a tough fight, just as they did the first time they met.

It was anybody's game until the fourth inning when hits by Katie Hickey and Diana Lee helped give the Angels a lead that they held on to the end. Robin Mainini also gave a strong performance on the mound striking out 11 batters in four innings.

The Mariners tried to come back in the sixth inning with the help of key hits by Karen Hardy and Michelle Lemos. Kelly Gillis also had a great hit in the sixth inning, but the Angels were able to hang on defensively and preserve the win.

On being on time

by Capt. Larz Neilson
E.E. Brooks was a resident of Wilmington for a year or so, about 1920-21. He had been an engineer on the Boston & Maine Railroad. He had made the mistake of not going on strike at the right time when all the other trainmen did.

As an engineer he was in the cab of the engine, regulating the speed of the train, but when the strike was over E.E. Brooks was out of work. He had not gone on strike so he could not be hired. That was how this writer understood it.

So he lived, for about a year, at the home of Bernice Humphrey on Glen Road at the corner of Miller Road. He used to mow the lawn and do odd jobs about the house. He never had any conversations with the boy across the street. That boy lived in the cement block house constructed by his father in 1911-12.

Bernice Humphrey was a lady with a fine soprano voice, and only one leg. She weighed about 250 pounds. She would sing, on occasion, in the Congregational Church in Wilmington or in Tewksbury.

Uphill, on Glen Road was the farm of Christian and Christine Neilson. It was known as The Elms because of the many fine American Elms growing on that hill. The house had been constructed about 1795 for an attorney who was a member of the Thompson family. Across the street was a capacious barn, constructed about 1830 by Henry Hamden, one of two men of that name born in Wilmington. The other one captured Jefferson Davis, at the end of the Civil War.

The street leading up from Main Street became Hamden Street.

Christian Neilson was "Pop" and Christine was "Ma" to everyone at Silver Lake. When they bought the farm in 1904 there were six children, who had that name for their parents. They had lived previously on Chestnut Street, down near Hillside Way, and before that in Woburn.

Sometime about 1921 the Commonwealth reconstructed Main Street in Tewksbury and Wilmington. A steam roller was used to smooth out the crushed stone, which was probably of volcanic origin, and probably came from Akeson's Pit, at the Winchester-Woburn line. It was rock that would last forever - well, nearly.

It lasted for about 75 years.

A steamroller was used to put that rock down properly. E.E. Brooks was the only man around who had experience with steam engines. He became the engineer who ran that steam roller. After the street was paved he faded out of the picture. Perhaps he went with the steam roller to the next job.

But E.E. Brooks had another job, while he lived in Wilmington. He probably was not paid for that work.

Pop Neilson's farm - The Elms, was a summer boarding house, a popular one. If memory is correct there would be seven, or maybe more families there every summer. One of the downstairs rooms was enlarged to become a Sunday dining room. There everyone could get a seat, and partake of the chicken or whatever was being served that day. All this was before the days of radio. The only way is most of Wilmington to get the right time was to live down wind from the Congregational Church, and thus be able to hear the chimes of the Congregational Church, when they struck the hour.

Of course, the Wilmington and the Silver Lake railroad station could provide the correct time, if one cared to walk that far. They got the time from the railroad telegraph, which was constantly clicking away in both offices.

E. E. Brooks possessed an engineer's watch, as a railroad engineer. So he got a summer job at The Elms.

Every Sunday noon, while the summer guests at The Elms were having their Sunday chicken, E.E. Brooks would go from room to room, setting the clocks in those rooms, at the correct time.

Whether or not he was paid is not known. He probably got a piece of pie or perhaps two, from one of the ladies in the kitchen.

Family Day at the Stone Zoo

Continental Cablevision and The Family Channel will sponsor a full day of family entertainment and educational activities at Stone Zoo Family Day, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, June 5.

This is the fourth year that Continental has teamed up with the Friends of Stone Zoo for an event to raise funds and support for the regional zoo. The Family Channel is co-sponsoring the event for the first time this year.

Continental is also conducting a promotional campaign, offering discounted installation fees to new customers and donating half of all fees collected to the zoo. Money raised by the campaign and at Family Day will be used for the creation of a new children's exhibit at the zoo, to be called "The Mighty Jungle."

Since 1990, Continental has donated more than $40,000 that helped create three new exhibits at Stone Zoo.

"We're pleased to be continuing our support of this valuable community resource," said Tom Cagney, Marketing Director for Continental, "and to help the zoo in its efforts to better serve the children of area families."

State Senator Richard Tisei will participate in the June 5 celebration of the second anniversary of the zoo's re-opening. He was instrumental in the creation of the Commonwealth Zoological Corporation, which re-opened the zoo on June 6, 1992.

Hosting the event will be New England children's television pioneer Rex Trailer. Also appearing will be a number of costumed characters from cable's cartoon elite, including Madeline and Peter Rabbit from The Family Channel, Ren & Stimpy and Eureka and Nickelodeon, and Professor Iris and The Kitty Cats from The Learning Channel's Ready, Set, Learn.

The cable personalities will also be participating in Reading's Tricentennial Parade on Saturday, June 4.

At the Family Day celebration, Continental and The Family Channel will sponsor "Zoo Quest," an educational game for children, with free "Mighty Jungle" t-shirts going to all who visit five wildlife education stations and ask a question at each.

Among other activities at Stone Zoo Family Day:

Free animal masks for children who draw their favorite zoo animal; drawings by a Walt Disney animation artist; scheduled "animal encounters;" coupons for free ice cream, courtesy of Brigham's Ice Cream; plus poster, prizes, drawings and more.

Discounted installation of cable television service for $9.95, with half of that going to the zoo, will be available through June 30 to new cable customers in 28 towns served by Continental in northeastern Massachusetts.

"Because Stone Zoo is a regional resource, we are extending the campaign to all our systems in northeastern Massachusetts," said Continental's Cagney.

The installation campaign will be available to new Continental customers in more than 25 area towns, including Wilmington.

CRITICAL VIEWING for children is a main goal of Rita Covelle (middle), of Stoneham. Rita is the co-founder of the Eastern Massachusetts chapter of Morality in Media. ## Morality in Media

By KEN MAGUIRE

A few years ago two retired school teachers in Stoneham decided they had enough of what they felt was too much sex and violence on television, especially with so many children taking it all in.

"It is our intent to promote decency in the media," said Rita Covelle, who co-founded the Eastern Massachusetts chapter of Morality in Media. "We didn't want to be just another group or club that meets and does nothing."

Covelle decided, along with cohort June McTaggart (who unfortunately passed away recently, before this story was published), to do something about the "escalation of violence, explicit sex and profanity on television." In the last three years they've sent hundreds of protest letters to advertisers, picketed television studios and held workshops to teach parents and children about critical viewing.

And that's not all. They were successful in passing an article at Stoneham's Town Meeting this year to amend zoning bylaws regarding adult video stores and theaters. This move came after they learned of an adult movie section in a Stoneham video rental store. The bylaw changes will make it difficult for future adult establishments to open in Stoneham.

WAIT A MINUTE, what about free speech?

"Very frequently the First Amendment comes into play," Covelle said. "The First Amendment also insures to protect the rights and welfare of the family. We're not censoring. We're just expressing our opinion. It's for the safety and protection of our families."

About The Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

Rats and seals make for interesting neighbors

Oh ... rats!

Lynnfield residents have turned to Town Administrator Joseph Maney in a last ditch effort to solve a rodent problem, according to the "Lynnfield Villager."

Seems that the area along Summer St. from Summer Ave. to Elmwood Ave. and back to Pillings Pond leaves a lot to be desired as far as the amount of appetizing debris left around. And neighborhood concern does increase when hawks swoop down to dinner, plucking rats from trees in the process, as reportedly happened.

Lynnfield Board of Health Chairman Robert St. Sauveur did tell selectmen that the problem had started to spread and that people should eliminate whatever the rats are feeding on.

"Town officials said," notes "The Villager," "they would stay on top of the situation."

If not on top, probably in the vicinity of.

Moving right along, outside of Stone - support your local - Zoo territory

Seals were the subject of a recent "townscript" in the North Reading "Transcript":

"Last week, 'Townscripts' predicted 'the next brouhaha at town hall' would be over signs in the corridors giving directions to town departments," note 'Script' scribes.

"Little did we know how accurate our prediction would be. In fact, the ink wasn't dry yet before the controversy erupted.

Patricia Romeo criticized T.A. Steve Daly Wednesday night because the signs carried an abstract version of the oak tree logo, rather than the town seal. Romeo said she felt 'betrayed' by Daly, whom she accused of having an 'obsession' with the tree logo. 'I can't believe I am apologizing for this,' said Daly, and personally went out and removed the signs."

The obvious question: Romeo, where went thou?

Bikes, trikes and buggies in Winchester

Every one of every age is invited to Town Day in Winchester on Saturday, June 4th.

The bike, trike and buggy parade kick-off has a circus theme and will be followed by a children's fair from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., including an arts and crafts area where children can fashion jewelry, crowns, pin-wheels, fingerprint notes, and other treasures from trash.

Games will include fair versions of golf, softball, football, fishing and basketball, with the possibility of a pony ride.

On the Town Common, thanks to Art Space, activities will alternate every half hour, including: Kidstock Youth Theater, a participatory happening directed by Brian Milauskas; the Ballet Arts Centre directed by Debbie Boyle; and Artists' Fun for Kids, directed by Barbara Gagel. Parents and grandparents are welcome to jump into any events - except the pony rides. Other events include a fishing derby at Wedge Pond and a spelling bee at the Jenks Center.

350 events in Reading

Every one of every age is invited to Reading's 350th celebration which began on Sunday, May 29th and continues until Friday, June 10th.

Saturday, June 4th will feature Reading Quest, a townwide hunt using historical and contemporary clues, beginning at the Memorial Park Band Stand at 10 a.m. The two-mile parade begins at 2 p.m. and follows a Birch Meadow Drive, Main St. Haven St., Washington St. route. And Jubilee - Reading's answer to First Night - begins around 4 p.m. and features arts, entertainment, fantasy, and face-painting.

WEDNESDAY/THURSDAY, JUNE 1, 2, 1994-PAGE S-3

Tewksbury is back

The Pop Warner Football Conference of Eastern Mass has decided to allow Tewksbury to return to the conference after an absence of six or so years "due to some allegations of illegal wrong doing from a former president," according to the Tewksbury "Town Crier."

Just goes to show - in a word - that illegal wrongdoing is six years more serious than legal wrongdoing.

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

At Stoneham High

Greater Bostonians live!

The wonderful music of Broadway and Hollywood will fill the summer air on Sunday evening June 19 when nationally renowned maestro Eddie Madden brings the 50 musicians of the orchestra and chorus of The Greater Bostonians to the Stoneham High School auditorium.

The Greater Bostonians have been featured on WCVB-TV's Channel 5 "Chronicle" and play to standing ovations. Their Stoneham show will be the first in a series of performances to include a television special, the Hatch Shell and Boston's City Hall Plaza.

Show tunes will include the memorable Sinatra ballad "Just The Way You Look Tonight," a rousing salute to "Old Broadway U.S.A.!" Madden's original arrangement of great American spirituals, the romantic "When I Fall In Love" and much more.

Ken Coleman, major league sports broadcaster and for 20 years the "Voice of The Red Sox," will M.C. the show and perform his classic rendition of "Casey at the Bat" that has been a show stopper every time he has performed it with The Boston Pops.

The summer night of music and fun will be presented to the community by The Stoneham Cooperative Bank and will benefit The Jimmy Fund and The Stoneham Business and Community Educational Foundation's efforts on behalf of the children of Stoneham.

Tickets are $7 and may be purchased at the High School and Stoneham Cooperative Bank offices at 335 Main Street and The Redstone Shopping Center, and at The Stoneham Chamber of Commerce. Showtime is 7:30 p.m.

Annual National Safe Boating Week

National Safe Boating Week, sponsored by the National Safe Boating Council, Inc., is the annual national media event that launches the recreational boating season in the United States. It not only starts the traditional boating season, but also introduces a year long media campaign.

During this week, members of the council, including the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, U. S. Power Squadrons, State Boating Law Administrators, Army Corps of Engineers, American Red Cross, and other groups provide extensive media coverage, local exhibits, and special programs on safe boating with the theme now in use by the Council, "Boat Smart - Boat Sober."

The Council supports the grassroots activity of many volunteer groups with media kits and other pamphlets. About 7,600 Action Manuals were delivered in 1986, but the number has grown steadily to 29,000 Action Manuals in 1994.

Boston Harbor - June 4

This event will be based at Christopher Columbus Park and Long Wharf in Boston, and be hosted by the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, First District, Northern Region. At the Coast Guard Support Center participants will be joined by many vessels and crew from the U.S. Coast Guard. The 270' Cutters plan to be in port and will be open to the public as will the 85' Buoy Tenders, and other smaller vessels.

The Coast Guard and Auxiliary will be staging rescue demonstrations, including the use of a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter, and conducting Auxiliary training, public education focused on children and vessel examinations. The Red Cross, U.S. Power Squadron, and State Police will also be providing demonstrations in the park and on the water.

Eastern Middlesex Human Services CEO resigns

Dale Klatzker, Ph.D. has been President and Chief Executive Officer of Eastern Middlesex Human Services for nearly seven years. It has prepared him for changes in the State's economy which have had an impact on social services throughout the Commonwealth. It has not however, deterred him from his vision: to provide quality mental health care to consumers no matter what problems he has had to confront.

This month the Board of Directors and staff accepted his resignation with great regret. Under his guidance EMHS has been designated as "one of the outstanding mental health agencies in the State," by the Commissioner of the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health, Eileen Elias.

Since coming to EMHS, he has overseen the growth of the Agency from a $1.3 million dollar organizations to almost $7 million. In a period when many agencies have experienced critical cuts in staff or monies, and programs and many agencies have closed he continues to institute creative change.

He has been involved in widening the scope of services and financing program development just when the issues of privatization and managed care have been shaking up social services. His initiatives are credit-

Morality in Media

From S-1

Back to television. If there is a poster child for immorality on television, it would have to be David Caruso. He's the red-headed Italian guy who plays the Irish cop on NYPD Blue, the popular ABC program.

Depending upon what episode you tune in to, Caruso, whose character name is Detective Kelly, can be seen blowing away crack addicts and swearing at witnesses. He also has become somewhat of a celebrity for giving a few high-profile butt shots while entering a bedroom and shower stall.

Sending the wrong message?

Covelle thinks so. "We should not have to be assaulted with violence, profanity or explicit sex," she said.

"WE HAVE TO educate our children," Covelle continued. "If people are killed on television, children have to realize that when the program is over, those people get up and walk away."

McTaggart said she was forced to watch a show one day called "How to Raise Worms" because it was the only program airing that she did not find offensive in some manner.

"We find that in many of the programs today, parents, teachers, policemen and the clergy are ridiculed," McTaggart said. "You get children who watch that day after day and they develop opinions. This is a terrible problem."

McTaggart also dismisses the free speech argument. "There is art and there is art. Some of what we see today (on television) is a joke under the guise of art."

Children, McTaggart said, see so much violence on television that they are no longer sensitive. "They're being desensitized. Children can hurt an animal or another child without even giving it a second thought."

Covelle suggests that parents become "active" viewers, and take a real interest in what their children are watching every day.

HOW DO YOU become active? It begins, experts say, with choosing good television for your kids. David Kleeman, director of the American Center for Children's Television, says parents should ask themselves the following questions when choosing:

- Does the program actively engage my child, physically or intellectually? Some shows can intrigue children, others do not.

- Do I respect this program? Parents don't have to like every single show their kids see.

- Does my child see others like himself or herself on television? On the whole, TV does not reflect the real world, so kids should not lose self-esteem if they do not see characters like themselves.

- How do the makers of this program regard my child? Some see kids as lifelong consumers while others see students in need of education.

A five-year study by the American Psychological Association (APA), released last year, concluded, among other things, that children are heavily influenced by what they watch on television.

Nine psychologists spent five years examining television's effects, concentrating on children, minorities, women and the elderly.

As for children, the study said the effect of TV violence is most sharply felt by the nation's children. Programs designed for children and programs particularly popular with children are full of images of death, injury and destruction on the commercial networks, the study said.

"The rate of violence on prime-time TV is about five to six incidents per hour, whereas the rate of violence on children's Saturday morning shows swells to 20-25 acts per hour," the study reported.

THE AVERAGE CHILD watches TV three to five hours a day, which means the typical kid has witnessed 8,000 murders and more than 100,000 other assorted acts of violence by the seventh grade, the study said. It added that the average kid spends more time watching TV than he or she does in school.

Advertisers, main targets of Covelle, are also discussed in the study. The APA found that children are exposed to at least one hour of commercials for every five hours of programming they watch. "Therefore," the study said, "the average child ends up being exposed to 20,000 commercial messages a year."

Naturally, the advertisers pay for advertising because they feel their messages influence behavior, a concept the networks have consistently denied when it comes to programming.

Covelle and her group are supporting Continental Cablevision's "Critical Viewing" program, designed to help children and parents in choosing TV shows to watch. In addition, Covelle likes what she's seen of FOX-TV 25's "Children's Programming."

"We are well aware that though TV can delight, educate and move children positively, it can also present unfavorable, distorted views of people's relationships, families, professions and society," Covelle said. "Many of these TV images and messages are distasteful also to decent adults and that is why groups like ours throughout the state will continue to monitor and protest."

"Phantom of the Opera" returns to Boston in July

With the incredible success of the Boston premiere of The Phantom of the Opera in 1992 and Miss Saigon in 1993, The Wang Center is pleased to host the first return engagement of The Phantom of the Opera as it graces The Wang Center stage in July.

The original cast album was the first in British musical history to enter the charts at number one. Major awards include seven 1988 Tony Awards including "Best Musical" and every major British theatre award, including the Olivier Award and the Evening Standard Award.

"The Wang Center is thrilled to have The Phantom of the Opera back. We are excited that so many people will have the opportunity to enjoy this wonderful show for the first time or all over again," said Joe

Based on the classic novel The Phantom and the Opera by Gaston Leroux, the musical tells the story of the hideously deformed Phantom who lurks beneath the stage of the Paris Opera, exercising a reign of terror over all its occupants. He falls fatally in love with the young soprano Christine, devoting himself to creating a new star for the Opera by nurturing her extraordinary talents and employing all the skills at his disposal.

According to State Archaeologist Brona Simon, "Preserving archaeological resources is critical in understanding our history. Informing the public about the subject of archaeology — its significance as well as its fragility — has been the goal of archaeologists nationwide. Because of events such as Archaeology Week, public awareness, respect and curiosity has greatly increased."

Archaeology Week is being funded in part by Algonquin Gas Transmission Company, Tennessee Gas Pipeline Company, Hewlett Packard, and Western Massachusetts Electric Company.

PAINTING AND DECORATING CONTRACTORS MEET

On Monday, June 6, the Middlesex and Northshore/Merrimack chapters of the Painting and Decorating Contractors of America (PDCA) will hold their monthly meeting at the Towne Lyne House Restaurant on Rte. 1, in Lynnfield.

This month's topic will focus on proper surface preparation. Presenting this topic will be Paul Skudlarek of the United States Gypsum Co. He will be discussing many of their products in relation to surface preparation and the products that help minimize many drywall and decorating problems.

He will help to decipher which compounds should be used for different types of wall surfaces and ceiling textures. "With so many problem walls and ceilings and so many products to choose from it sometimes makes it difficult to judge which product to use for a specific problem area, that is why Paul's presentation is sure to clear up any questions we may have and to keep us up to date on the new products and technology that have evolved," said Vincent Sergi, President of the Middlesex Chapter.

Any professional painter or paperhanger or any business that sells products that are relative to this industry is welcome to attend these monthly meetings. For more information call Vincent or Maria at (617) 245-6038.

Colonial Manor 5th Anniversary

Bobbie Botticelli and Rick Nazzaro, owners of Colonial Manor Realty, are pleased to announce the 5th Anniversary of their opening. In April of 1989, Bobbie and Rick joined together as partners and created Colonial Manor Realty. The name, inspired by its offices at 127 Franklin Street in Reading, has become widely known over the years.

Colonial Manor Realty's Reading office is housed in the historical property known as The Batchelder Home, built circa 1841. The Batchelder property, with many distinctive characteristics, has been carefully restored by Bobbie and Rick to reflect the beauty and charm of bygone days.

The front entry is well-known among historians for its fanning over the front door. It is the most prominent example of a federalist front in Reading. Due to the historical significance of this fanning, the property is listed in the National Register of Historic Places and Rick and Bobbie were inspired to adopt the fan as their company logo.

In July of 1992 Colonial Manor Realty expanded its services by opening a second office, located at 133 Park Street in North Reading.

The public is invited to call North Reading at (508) 664-5857 with questions regarding today's real estate market.

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

Mickey Mouse makes news in Stoneham again.

It's never a question of insulting Mickey

A cartoon on the opinion page of the "Stoneham Independent" depicts three Stoneham School Committee members, Mickey Mouse ears and all, surrounded by a swarm of kids with a castle in the background.

"I'm going to need a vacation after this," says one SchoolCom member.

"Sorry. We're only getting one week off this year," says another.

The caption: "In a stunning compromise, the Stoneham School Committee agrees to take the student body with them on spring vacation 1995."

From the look of things, including the "Our children lose" letter to the editor to the left of the cartoon, the School Committee could be the next target group to concern itself with body counts.

The question of the hour: Will Stoneham's revolutionary 1994-95 school calendar last as long as Burlington's did...n't?

Tewksbury looks at student safety

"Recently the Tewksbury Public Schools and the Tewksbury Police Department organized two programs on the issue of student safety," notes Tewksbury Superintendent of Schools Dr. Christine McGrath, in the Tewksbury "Town Crier."

The first program focused on stranger awareness and included a presentation by Officer Brad, a computerized robot and Deputy Jamieson. McGrath suggests that parents borrow the tape "Think Smart - Stay Safe" from local schools and libraries for viewing with their children.

The second program focused on bus safety, reviewing all aspects of the school bus program including appropriate behavior at the bus stop and on the bus. The program was developed by Mr. Sullivan, Dr. DeAngelis and representatives from Tewksbury Transit in conjunction with health educators and the police.

"I would like to take this opportunity to remind those children who ride bikes to our schools to cross streets at the cross walk, to wear a bike helmet and to avoid crossing a street in between two parked cars," notes McGrath. "In addition, children should be sure to bring a lock for their bike."

Students teach science in Winchester

Led by Susan Duffy and Dorothy Zevitas, fifth through eighth graders at Winchester's Bartlett School recently used the scientific method to prepare a science fair which taught both observers and students alike.

After choosing topics, developing hypotheses, reaching conclusions, writing, and crafting "hands-on" examples and posters, students answered the following questions, among others: How clean is your water? What types of materials decompose? How do salt and other substances affect the freezing process of water? Which brand of bread stays fresh the longest? How many newspapers does it take to make one piece of recycled paper?

Reading - that's Reading - class sizes spark interest

"A large and vocal" contingent of parents from Reading's Killam elementary school made

Low fat ice cream now popular

More and more consumers are demanding low fat desserts, but everyone still wants delicious flavor. Borden, Inc. is meeting this challenge head-on by introducing Low Fat Ice Cream, a frozen dessert offering rich and creamy a taste with fat ranging from only 2 to 2.5 grams per serving.

"People are aggressively seeking out foods that score high in nutrition, especially when shopping the dairy case," says Martin Kelly, vice president sales and marketing for ice cream, Borden, Inc. "Research shows that 67 percent of shoppers always or usually buy low fat foods and that 68 percent of dairy food shoppers will switch to more nutritious brands."

When compared per serving to regular ice cream, low fat ice cream has about 70 percent less fat (2 grams versus 6 to 8 grams in regular ice cream), 50 percent less cholesterol (10 milligrams versus 20 to 25 milligrams in regular ice cream), and 25 percent fewer calories (on average 107 calories versus 143 calories in regular ice cream), says Kelly.

themselves heard at a recent School Committee when Reading Superintendent of Schools Dr. Robert Munnely presented his plan for next year's elementary classes.

He acknowledged, according to the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle," that the plan is "far from perfect" but that classes are full and enrollment is increasing.

Killam parents were "outraged" that each of the school's four first grades might have 25 to 26 students, and parents urged School Committee members to "find a way" to reduce those numbers and bring them more in line with the 18 to 21 projected at Reading's three other elementary schools.

Kindergarten class size was also a subject of discussion, and although the School Committee members expressed their desire to keep numbers down, they are fully aware that funding is not likely to go up.

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

"M.E.'s for You"

For Tracy, everything about "RK" sounded terrific except the cost. Then she heard about us.

Tracy Wampler, a successful graphic designer, knew about an exciting new medical procedure called Radial Keratotomy (RK).

It could correct her nearsightedness and astigmatism. No more glasses or contacts. But finding a good, experienced board-certified eye physician to do it — affordably — was the problem.

Until she called the Horsley Eye Clinic. Now she couldn't be happier.

Wilson Horsley, M.D. is a board certified ophthalmologist. He is Chief of Ophthalmology at New England Memorial Hospital and is on the staffs of other major hospitals, including Tufts New England Medical Center.

Local bands in concert series

The first Music Place Friday Night Concert, held April 29, was a huge success with over 150 people attending and donating all proceeds to "My Brother's Table," a shelter providing meals for the homeless located in Lynn.

The Music Place Friday Night Concert series originated with the idea of giving local bands a taste of playing in front of people as well as helping to promote live music. The crowd was surprised to hear what the six local bands, as well as the Music Place Teacher Band, could do.

The bands that played were: Booth, a rock cover/original band from Andover; Live Wire, a contemporary Christian pop/rock band also from Andover; Brice Center, a solo performer that attends Phillips Academy and studies guitar at the Music Place; John Barnes, clarinetist from North Reading and also a student at the Music Place; Paradox, a very polished band comprised of four members from Andover; and Boneyard, an alternative rock band from Andover.

Raffles were held after every band's performance with over 40 prizes given away.

The Music Place plans to continue this concert series every four to six weeks. The next concert is tentatively scheduled for June 10. Any band that would like to sign up to perform please contact John, Joe or Steve at (508) 664-6213 for information or stop by The Music Place, 41 Main Street, Route 28, next to McDonald's, in North Reading. The Music Place sells new and used instruments, as well as offering lessons and repairs for all instruments.

ANTHONY MANCONI

"Stay away from the dancing halls, the people there are no good at all. That's where I met your father, Bridge Darling." That was a popular song years ago meant to be funny but, of course, it wasn't true.

The finest people I know are ballroom dancers. Some can still glide across the floor with the greatest agility and smoothness, just as they did years ago. A few of the many I know are Joseph Vesce, Cookie Moschella, Joe "Crackers," the Valley Sisters and Anna Batista.

Folks, it's true. One robin does not a summer make but one lark can sure be responsible for a fall... "A halo doesn't have to slip very far to become a noose."... When Jimmy Corbett was in the U.S. Navy, the captain asked him, "What's port sailor?" Jimmy saluted and replied, "I think it's a red wine sir!"

Kathy is so bow-legged I hung a picture of her over the door for good luck... At a swanky black tie social, a hostess said to me, "Chipper, why aren't you dancing?" "I'm a little still from polo," I replied. "I don't care where you're from. You are here to dance and enjoy yourself."

There was a fire in the Old Howard (a burlesque show in Scollay Square in Boston years ago). It took 20 minutes to put out the fire and two hours to put out the firemen... Kathy came to me on her hands and knees this morning. She dared me to come out from under the bed.

After a very long sermon,

Aunt Nora said, "Father, your sermon this morning was like water to a drowning man."... When Edward Everett Hale was the Chaplain of the U.S. Senate he was asked, "Sir, do you pray for the senators?" "No," he replied, "I look at the senators and pray for the country."

I don't care to go to many social events because of precisely one thing — most of the music played is loud, louder and louder. O.K., I'm getting old. I'm square and not "hep," whatever that means. Will someone tell me what happened to the music of Fred Waring, Glen Miller, Guy Lombardo, Tommy Dorsey and my all time favorite Lawrence Welk?... Kathy had an hourglass figure but the sand has all gone to the bottom.

Acting workshops for homeless Vets

The Veterans Theatre Workshop at the New England Shelter of Homeless Veterans has enlisted the expertise of The Publick Theatre, Inc. to conduct a series of ten workshops over the summer for homeless veterans. In exchange, the workshop participants will volunteer for on-the-job training during the Publick Theatre's 1994 season.

Since its establishment one year ago, the Veterans Theatre Workshop has engaged in several collaborative efforts, including a workshop program with Emerson College and theatre professional Kristin Linklater, as well as participation in local area performances. The collaborative effort with the Publick Theatre will focus primarily on the creative expression of the homeless veterans' thought and concerns about today's society, as well as their role within this community, through acting exercises, basic voice and movement, improvisation, and role playing.

Workshops will be conducted by Caroline Kirby, Deborah Schoenberg and other members of the Publick Theatre staff. This program is funded in part by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency which also receives support from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Tickets for the Publick Theatre's 1994 season are on sale now. The season's first musical, The Gondoliers, will open June 1. For more information, contact Deborah Schoenberg at The Publick Theatre, Inc. at (617) 782-5425.

Crusade offers parents help to end fatherlessness

This is to announce the launching of the Crusade to End Fatherlessness. This promises to be one of the great crusades of all time, dwarfing Eisenhower's crusade in Europe.

The initiator, Dr. R. H. Turcotte, is a physician of 50 years experience in helping people to become emotionally healthy through promoting individual and group emotional and spiritual growth. He is the founder of the Institute for the Advancement of Maturity. He is perhaps the foremost authority in the world today on this subject.

His experience has convinced him of the crucial importance of fathering, something critically and vitally needed during adolescence.

While a male parent is important during childhood, it is absolutely essential during the teenage years for mental health and character development. Today, America in many cases is fatherless in that parents do not provide the fathering needed for young people.

The Crusade to End Fatherlessness aims to remedy this deficiency in American Society and consequently World Wide. The primary concern of this crusade is the empowerment of male and female parents to provide adequate fathering. All social ills, the Doctor maintains, are rooted in the lack of the empowerment of fathers. The crusade focuses on the basic need to finance this movement.

I don't know anyone who has more personality than Jimmy Fanikos of Melrose. I don't know anyone any smarter, either. He just discovered a secret pill that he puts in his car's gas tank along with a quart of castor oil that makes his old clunker of a car go-o-o faster.

What's in a name? "Plenty!" (Shakespeare, not withstanding). If names don't mean anything, pray tell me, why do movie producers change the names of movie stars and actresses? For instance, the great singer Mario Lanza's real name was Mario Cucoza which means squash in Italian. I agree changing the name didn't let Mario sing any better but it was more appealing to movie goers.

I have a rotary phone so when I call a company I'm asked, "If you are calling Mr. A, press one." Then they go on and on until I'm asked to press 27. Many times I am told to change my phone for a touch phone but why should I? My phone was given to my father by Alexander Graham Bell. Or was it Don Ameche? Anyway, I wish I had a pay phone so anyone in my house who uses it would have to pay "up front."

I was told that a 'camel' is really a 'horse' put together by a committee... My cousin, Angelo Quaganti, served with the 121st Battalion of her Majesty's Fusileers. The men who served in it were nicknamed "The paperhangers" because on "border" patrols they would get "hung up" and come apart at the "seams." The "pattern" was always the same; they would become "unglued" and would call for help to "roll down" the loose edges and smooth out the "wrinkles."

The late Sam Levenson was a great humorist. This friendly charitable man was asked, "Sam, what makes some people anti-Semitic?" "I don't know," Sam replied, "It's a free world. You don't have to like Jews but, if you don't, you should be consistent and also hate their accomplishments."

Like the police vaccine by Dr. Jonas Salk and Dr. Albert Sabin, streptomycin discovered by Dr. Woronin, vitamins by Dr. Funk, etc. So," Sam continued, "if you want to hate, hate! But, stay healthy!"

Folks, I'm knock-kneed and Kathy is bowlegged so when we are out walking together we look like two quotation marks coming toward you.

Dreamboats: Lisa Ferrari, Somerville; Stacy Rhoads, North Reading; Kate Bekkenhuis, Stoneham; Alison Faraco, Burlington; Audrey Hager, Winchester; Lisa Crowley, Wilmington.

"The Flintstones", - Short Takes

by Rochelle Flynn

"The Flintstones" Starring John Goodman, Rick Moranis, Elizabeth Perkins, Rosie O'Donnell, Kyle MacLachlan, Halle Berry, Richard Moll, Elizabeth Taylor. Directed by Brian Levant. Produced by Bruce Cohen. Written by Tom S. Parker, Jim Jennewein, Steven de Souza. Rated PG.

Visually, "The Flintstones" is a prehistoric treat. Lack of plot, a sluggish pace and a grating, cartoon-like style of acting all add up to one Yabba-Dabba-Dud.

John Goodman couldn't be more perfect as the kindly, dim-witted Bedrockian, even if he does sound a lot like Jackie Gleason imitating the Fred Flintstone of cartoonland. Of course, there is something very appropriate about this, as "The Flintstones" was nothing if not a cartoon version of "The Honeymooners." But what worked for 24 or so minutes in an animated format has all the appeal of primordial sludge when dragged out three times longer than the jokes can withstand.

The opening sequence has you believing you're in for a treat. Director Brian Levant, with the help of Jim Henson's Creature Shop and the special effects wizards at George Lucas' Industrial Light & Magic, re-created the cartoon's memorable epilogue. You can't help but hum along to that catchy theme music and laugh as the foreman at the Slate & Co. Quarry ends the working day by pulling the tail on a shrieking bird. Travelling home in their human-powered car, Fred and Barney (Rick Moranis) provide an amusing bit of eye candy.

Except for a few glitches, the film consistently looks fab, but once the joke is played out, there just ain't much up on the screen. What storyline there is consists of evil embezzling executive Kyle MacLachlan looking for a fall guy. Dangling an executive-in-training carrot in front of the working stiffs in the quarry pit, he picks his caveman. Fred, an unlikely mark, is mistakenly chosen.

And that, pretty much, is that. As Fred and Wilma (Elizabeth Perkins) rise in the world, Barney and his wife Betty (Rosie O'Donnell) find themselves so out of luck they end up living with their best friends. Eventually, Fred begins to realize all is not right in the executive corridors he's been sleepwalking through. It feels as if it took him three days to figure this out, when in fact the entire movie only run 92 minutes. As there is so little plot, the writers relied on numerous puns, most of which have the words rock or stone in them. The one-joke theme aside, you can't get past the fact that the bouncy, bubbly, cartoony style of acting just wears thin. All of the actors are proficient at it, especially Rosie O'Donnell as the high-pitched Betty Rubble.

Even a bouncy rare appearance by the lovely Elizabeth Taylor as Fred's nagging mother-in-law, Pearl Slaghoople, couldn't rescue this gravelly flick. "The Flintstones" should have been left in the animated Stone Age of our childhood memories.

Short Takes

Beverly Hills Cop III is a weary rehash of Eddie Murphy's cop-out-of-water bit. This time the Detroit detective lands in California to catch a killer at a Disneyworld type theme park. Bronson Pinchot is still funny as the Rusky capitalist now selling personal protection to gun-crazy Californians, but Murphy is surprisingly devoid of sparkle. The script is both predictable and occasionally ridiculous. Rated R. * 1/2

Maverick is light, frothy and has no more heft than a deck of cards, but this oater is one fun trip down Television Lane. Mel Gibson is the joking energy card sharpie bouncing from one adventure to another. He's unwillingly joined by huckster Jodie Foster and James Garner's cool-headed lawman. Director Richard Donner is guilty of overly milking each bit in the funny, if frail storyline, but the performances, camera work and high-energy antics never fail to amuse. Rated PG. ***

The Crow is the comic book "Batman" wanted to be. The late Brandon Lee, who accidentally died during filming, is a working class musician who rises from his grave to avenge his and his fiancée's deaths. A thin plot is fleshed out by stunning visuals, a driving industrial rock soundtrack, and clever dialogue that doesn't waste a word. Lee's intensely tragic performance makes for one of the more intriguing movie protagonists of the 90s. Rated R. *** 1/2

Four Weddings and a Funeral is a spirited, intelligent comedy by Mike Newell

("Enchanted April") that is as warm as it is witty. Hugh Grant is the commitment-shy Brit who feels he's missing out on something as he attends wedding after wedding, then finds himself swooning over American Andie McDowell at one of these ceremonies. She is, of course, engaged to someone else. Great characters, clever writing, fab direction. Rated R. ****

World War II exhibit at Kennedy Library

Fifty years to the day after the Allies landed on the beaches of Normandy, June 6, the Kennedy Library will open a special exhibit commemorating history's most devastating global war. "World War II: Personal Accounts - Pearl Harbor to V-J Day," traces the story of WWII through the words of the participants.

The exhibit features hundreds of dramatic letters, diaries, photographs, and objects from participants who witnessed the war's heroics and horrors.

Among the significant items included in the exhibit are: the Japanese surrender documents, a rare ten-minute film depicting the actual Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Franklin D. Roosevelt's draft of his "Day of Infamy" speech, correspondence between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt, and General George Patton's diary.

Sponsored by the National Archives and Records Administration, the exhibit was organized by the Lyndon B. Johnson Library.

The exhibit is also honoring Jacqueline Kennedy with a memorandum in the entry-way of the Library.

Admission to the exhibit, which runs between June 6 and September 5, is included in the museum's general entrance fee. The Kennedy Library is open daily 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
